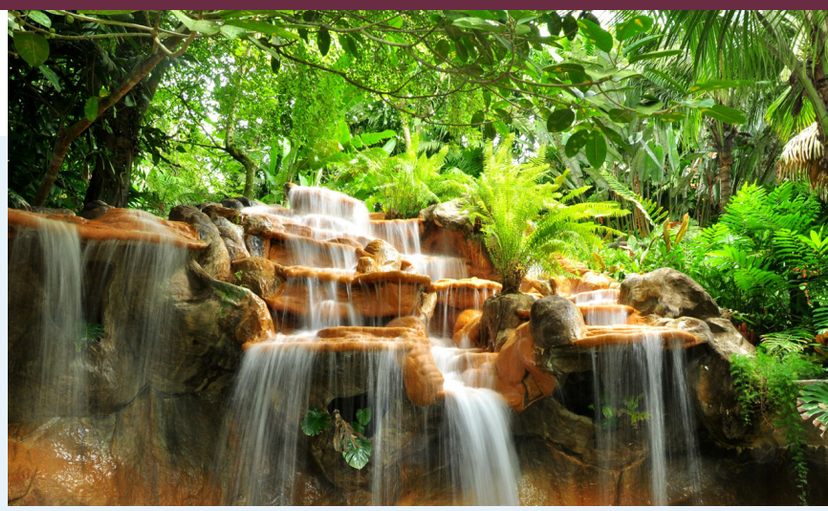
COSTA RICA
CENTRAL TIME ZONE AND THE US DOLLAR



A trip to Costa Rica evokes the call of the jungle, beaches and exotic wildlife. But as you locate this Central America destination on a map, you will notice Costa Rica is in the Central Time Zone. The national currency is the US Dollar, too. This makes for a convenient yet extraordinary winter get-away destination!

Located just 10 degrees north of the equator and ideally situated between the Pacific Ocean and the Caribbean Sea, this tropical paradise is a natural wonder, rich in exotic flora and fauna. With over eighteen different ecosystems found in a country the size of West Virginia, Costa Rica boasts places like a Cloud Forest, a Caribbean Humid Forest, a Dry Tropical Forest, a Flooded Forest, and a Rainforest by the Sea. Wondrous and exotic animals like monkeys, turtles, fish, frogs, birds, caiman and insects call Costa Rica home. These ecosystems house parks, reserves, wildlife refuges, and biological stations.

No matter when you arrive, be prepared to enjoy fresh fruits, rice, beans, and grilled meats. Combine this with some of the world's smoothest coffee and delicious chocolate to finish your meal. The land is scenic, the animals and plants fascinating, and warm waters surround beautiful sandy beaches.

Depending on your time and personal interests, top excursions include the Arenal Volcano Park, the Cano Negro Wildlife Refuge, the Hanging Bridges in the Monteverde Cloud Forest and Ecotermales Hot Springs. From the capital of San Jose, one can easily head west toward the Pacific to reach Manuel Antonio National Park and Beach, the Rainforest by the Sea.

Going east to the Caribbean one can reach the Tortuguero Flooded Forest after boarding a riverboat for a nature cruise of this Amazon like region of Costa Rica. This region is also the prime nesting spot of sea turtles. Take a nature cruise of the park's creeks, rivers, and lagoons in search of exotic flora and fauna including toucans, a variety of monkeys, herons, caimans, and iguanas. Colorful Costa Rica is close by and safe. Come experience it's charm.

When the unexpected happens...

Mother Nature does not consult with our travel calendars when she decides to show her strength. Whether we can blame it on global warming, cyclical storms, or the airlines; travelers need to be flexible when the unforeseen happens. While your travel professional cannot make it “go away”, your travel planning partner can assist you in ways you could never handled yourself. Travel agencies receive advisories from airlines, tour operators, and travel insurance companies on a regular basis. If a change needs to be made to your itinerary, your travel professional is just one phone call away.
